

Newsletter: Happy Holidays From Search Guard

Search Guard · 2021-12-22

Dear friends,

we wanted to take the chance to say a quick hello before the year comes to a close, and share some important links and updates in case you missed them.

Elasticsearch ASL Version

Our team has been working with customers using Elasticsearch for a long time; we were there at the very beginning with Lucene even before we had our own plugin. Now we have Search Guard 52.4.0 which supports Elasticsearch and Kibana 7.15.1. This latest release also includes a new easy-to-use and lightweight command line administration tool. Check it out here.

Search Guard for OpenSearch is Here

Search Guard for OpenSearch is here! We have a pre-release version that we would love you to test! Any feedback you have is very welcome, please let us know what you think. Demo installer scripts are ready for download too. Get started now.

Community Driven Products

As a Search Guard user, you now have the option to run either OpenSearch or Elasticsearch. We are fully committed to the community and will continue to deliver products and services based on user demand.

It's been a turbulent year for our industry - let's see what the next brings. We are proud members of the Open Source community and continue to actively participate in ongoing projects.

Thank you for supporting our products and services and using Search Guard! It wouldn't be where it is today without you. If you have any questions, queries or want to say hello, please contact us today.

Happy Holidays from your Search Guard team.
